

Activities:

Show children a tube of toothpaste and ask them to name things they do when they are mad (hit, kick, yell, act rude) Squeeze out some toothpaste for each thing they name. Can we put the toothpaste back in the tube? When you call someone a name, you can't unsay it. When you hit someone, you can't unhit them. God wants us to have self-control so that we can keep from doing these things. Moses didn't have very good self-control at the start of our story, and he couldn't undo his actions.

Place Christmas lights on a small plant to represent the burning bush. Call each child by name, have them say, "Here I am!" and take off their shoes. Give them a command, such as:

- feed someone who is hungry
- help someone who is cold in winter
- be nice to a new kid in school
- help someone who is old
- help your younger sibling with homework
- help out at home.

Preschool

Coloring Page:

Encourage children to draw a picture of themselves next to the speech bubble. Ask them to name something good they might say to someone (like a compliment or a respectful response) and write it in the bubble for them.

Modeling dough:

Encourage children to make something from the story, like sheep or a burning bush.

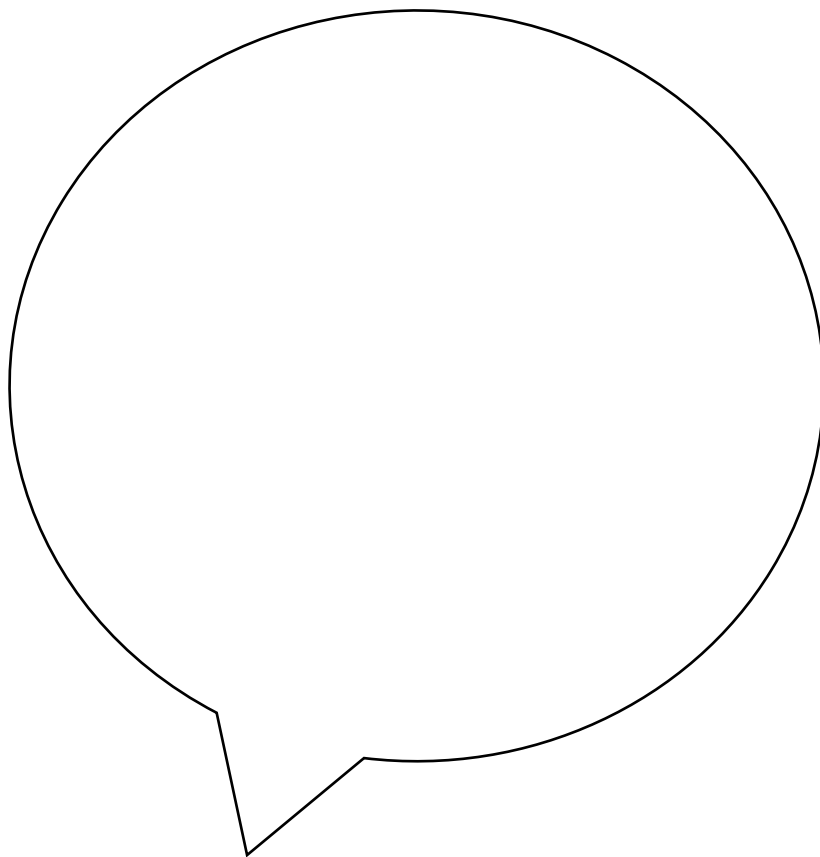

Game:

Bring out a basket of toy dolls and give each child a piece of aluminum foil. Have them make a mold of the toy and compare them. Name bad things kids do and ask for examples of what they can do instead. For each example mold the tin foil into a cross. Explain that followers of God are constantly being molded by Him to be more like Him.
