

Parent Angels

At the beginning of the year many parents will make vague offers to help “with anything you need.” The problem is, parents don’t always know what is actually needed, and teachers don’t always know in what ways parents are actually willing and able to help. Parents are often happiest to help when it is something they are passionate about and/or have the ability to do well.

Cut out these angel cards and hang them on a class plant, from a string with clothespins, or on the door, for parents to select at back-to-school night.
