A Bug Stung Me

I went for a jog on a path full of pink buds. The wind felt fresh on my skin. I was so glad I sang a song. But I had not sung much when a bug stung me on the leg. I did yell. My lungs felt a pinch as I did gasp. I swung my hand at the bug. It stung me on the hand. I fell into the mud. When I got back, I rung the mud from my pants. I flung them on the rack to dry. I do not wish to jog on that path. No, no, no!
