The Queen's Sleep

The queen lay in bed. She did not need to get some sleep. The next day she had to meet the prince to see if he will drop his fee for passing ships in his bay and let the queen's ships sail for free. She did try to think of sheep. She did try a fresh sheet. A bee buzzed in the top of the green tree. A screen did keep the bees in the hive from the queen's bed. It hung ten feet from the street.

When it was time to wake up, the queen was in a deep sleep. She slept late and did not get to meet with the prince. So, she has to pay the fee for the ships to pass in his bay.
