I Am Six!

I am six. I got a box with a big, red bow. My Dad said, "Let's see if you did grow this year."

My mom baked a cake. She said, "Blow out the six sticks that glow and make a wish."

I wished for snow. The next day, there was white outside. We did run out to play. Dad said, "Well, now I do not have to mow my own grass."

We made a man of snow. We did throw snow. I hid low to miss the hits, but I still got hit. I could feel the slow flow of ice go down my back. "Uh-oh!" said Dad. "Now I owe you a treat. Let's go put on the show you like.

The one with a singing crow in a rowboat."
